INTRODUCTION

What many guests don't realize about Disney World Resort is that it's HUGE. MASSIVE. GARGATUAN, even. We're talking TWICE the size of Manhattan here. So how on EARTH are you supposed to reach all four theme parks, the Disney Springs shopping district, two water parks, AND the 20+ hotels featured inside the property? Most folks will opt to use Disney World's FREE transportation services, but there's a lot about these options that you need to know!

SKYLINER

This sky gondola system connects EPCOT and Disney's Hollywood Studios with four Disney Resorts: Disney's Caribbean Beach Resort (which is also home to the Skyliner hub), Disney's Riviera Resort, and Disney's Art of Animation Resort – which shares a station with Disney's Pop Century Resort.

The Skyliner is typically available 1 hour before Early Theme Park Entry starts at EPCOT or Hollywood Studios. It closes around 90 minutes after EPCOT or Hollywood Studios closes. On nights when there are Extended Evening Hours in EPCOT, the Skyliner closes 1 hour after the park closes.

SKYLINER

RIDE TIMES

- Travel time between the Caribbean Beach Resort station and Disney's Hollywood Studios is about five minutes.
- Travel between Caribbean Beach Resort and Riviera Resort is about three minutes.
- Travel between Riviera Resort and EPCOT is about ten minutes.
- Travel between Caribbean Beach Resort and Art of Animation/Pop Century is about five minutes.

BUSES

Disney buses are the one mode of transportation that you can find all over property. Buses travel continuously to and from all four theme parks, Disney Springs, and all of the resort hotels.

Just keep in mind that buses do not travel between hotels. So if you're at Disney's All-Star Music and you need to get over to Disney's Coronado Springs, for example, you'll either have to drive yourself (if you've got a car/rental car), book a rideshare (which can be a more direct and quick option than using Disney's free transportation), or take a bus (or other available free Disney transportation, depending on where you're staying) to one of the parks/Disney Springs first and THEN transfer to a Coronado Springs bus from there.

As a general rule of thumb, bus service from the hotels to the theme parks begins 45 minutes before park opening, and ends one hour after park close. You can find wait times posted at your resort's bus stop station.

Buses between the Disney World hotels and Disney Springs are available during Disney Springs' operating hours. They end one hour after Disney Springs closes for the night.

BUSES

RIDE TIMES

Give Yourself Extra Time for Disney Bus Travel!

If you're traveling at certain times or between select locations, your trip may take longer than expected.

Early Mornings: If you leave the park before 11 AM, expect longer wait times for a bus since fewer guests return to hotels early in the day.

Total Travel Time: Factor in waiting for the bus, boarding, travel, unloading, security, scanning into the park, and walking to your destination. Be extra mindful of this for dining or Lightning Lane reservations, as some locations are far from park entrances.

Hotel Location Matters: Some trips take longer—like Animal Kingdom Lodge to Magic Kingdom—compared to shorter routes like Animal Kingdom Lodge to Animal Kingdom.

Plan for at Least an Hour: This isn't just about travel time; waiting for buses and security can add up. Budget accordingly to avoid stress!

Estimated Travel Times

- Disney's All-Star Music
- 18 minutes to Magic Kingdom
- 15 minutes to Disney's Animal Kingdom
- 18 minutes to EPCOT
- 15 minutes to Disney's Hollywood Studios
- Disney's Coronado Springs
- 10-15 minutes to EPCOT
- 10-15 minutes to Hollywood Studios
- 10 minutes to Animal Kingdom
- 15-20 minutes to Magic Kingdom
- Disney's Saratoga Springs (near Disney Springs)
- 10 minutes to Magic Kingdom
- 15 minutes to EPCOT
- 15 minutes to Hollywood Studios
- 20 minutes to Animal Kingdom

MONORAIL

The Transportation and Ticket Center—often referred to simply as the TTC—serves as the “hub” for the three Monorail loops (or beams).

The Resort Monorail brings guests to Magic Kingdom, Disney’s Contemporary Resort, Disney’s Polynesian Village Resort, the TTC, and Disney’s Grand Floridian Resort.

The Express Monorail carries guests directly to and from the TTC and Magic Kingdom. (It also travels straight through the inside of Disney’s Contemporary Resort!).

The EPCOT Monorail brings guests to and from the TTC and EPCOT.

Note that these are separate beams/lines, meaning you cannot take the monorail from Magic Kingdom directly to EPCOT. You’ll need to get on the monorail at Magic Kingdom, go to the TTC, and then transfer to the EPCOT monorail line once at the TTC.

While both the Resort and Express monorails begin operating 30 minutes before Magic Kingdom opens, the Express Monorail will NOT start picking people up at Magic Kingdom until 11AM. So, during the first couple of hours when the park is open, it'll just drop you off at Magic Kingdom and leave you there.

However, you WILL still be able to ride the Resort monorail back from Magic Kingdom over to the TTC IF you need to head out of Magic Kingdom early for whatever reason. You'll just be making a few extra short stops along the way.

The Resort monorail and Express monorail start operating 30 minutes before Magic Kingdom opens, and stop 1 hour after Magic Kingdom closes.

The EPCOT monorail starts operating 30 minutes before EPCOT opens, and stops 2 hours after EPCOT closes.

MONORAIL

RIDE TIMES

- Resort monorail:
- About 15-20 minutes for a round trip
- Express monorail:
- About 10 minutes between TTC and Magic Kingdom (around 20 minutes roundtrip)
- EPCOT monorail:
- About 15 minutes between the TTC and EPCOT (around 30 minutes roundtrip)

WATER TRANSPORTATION

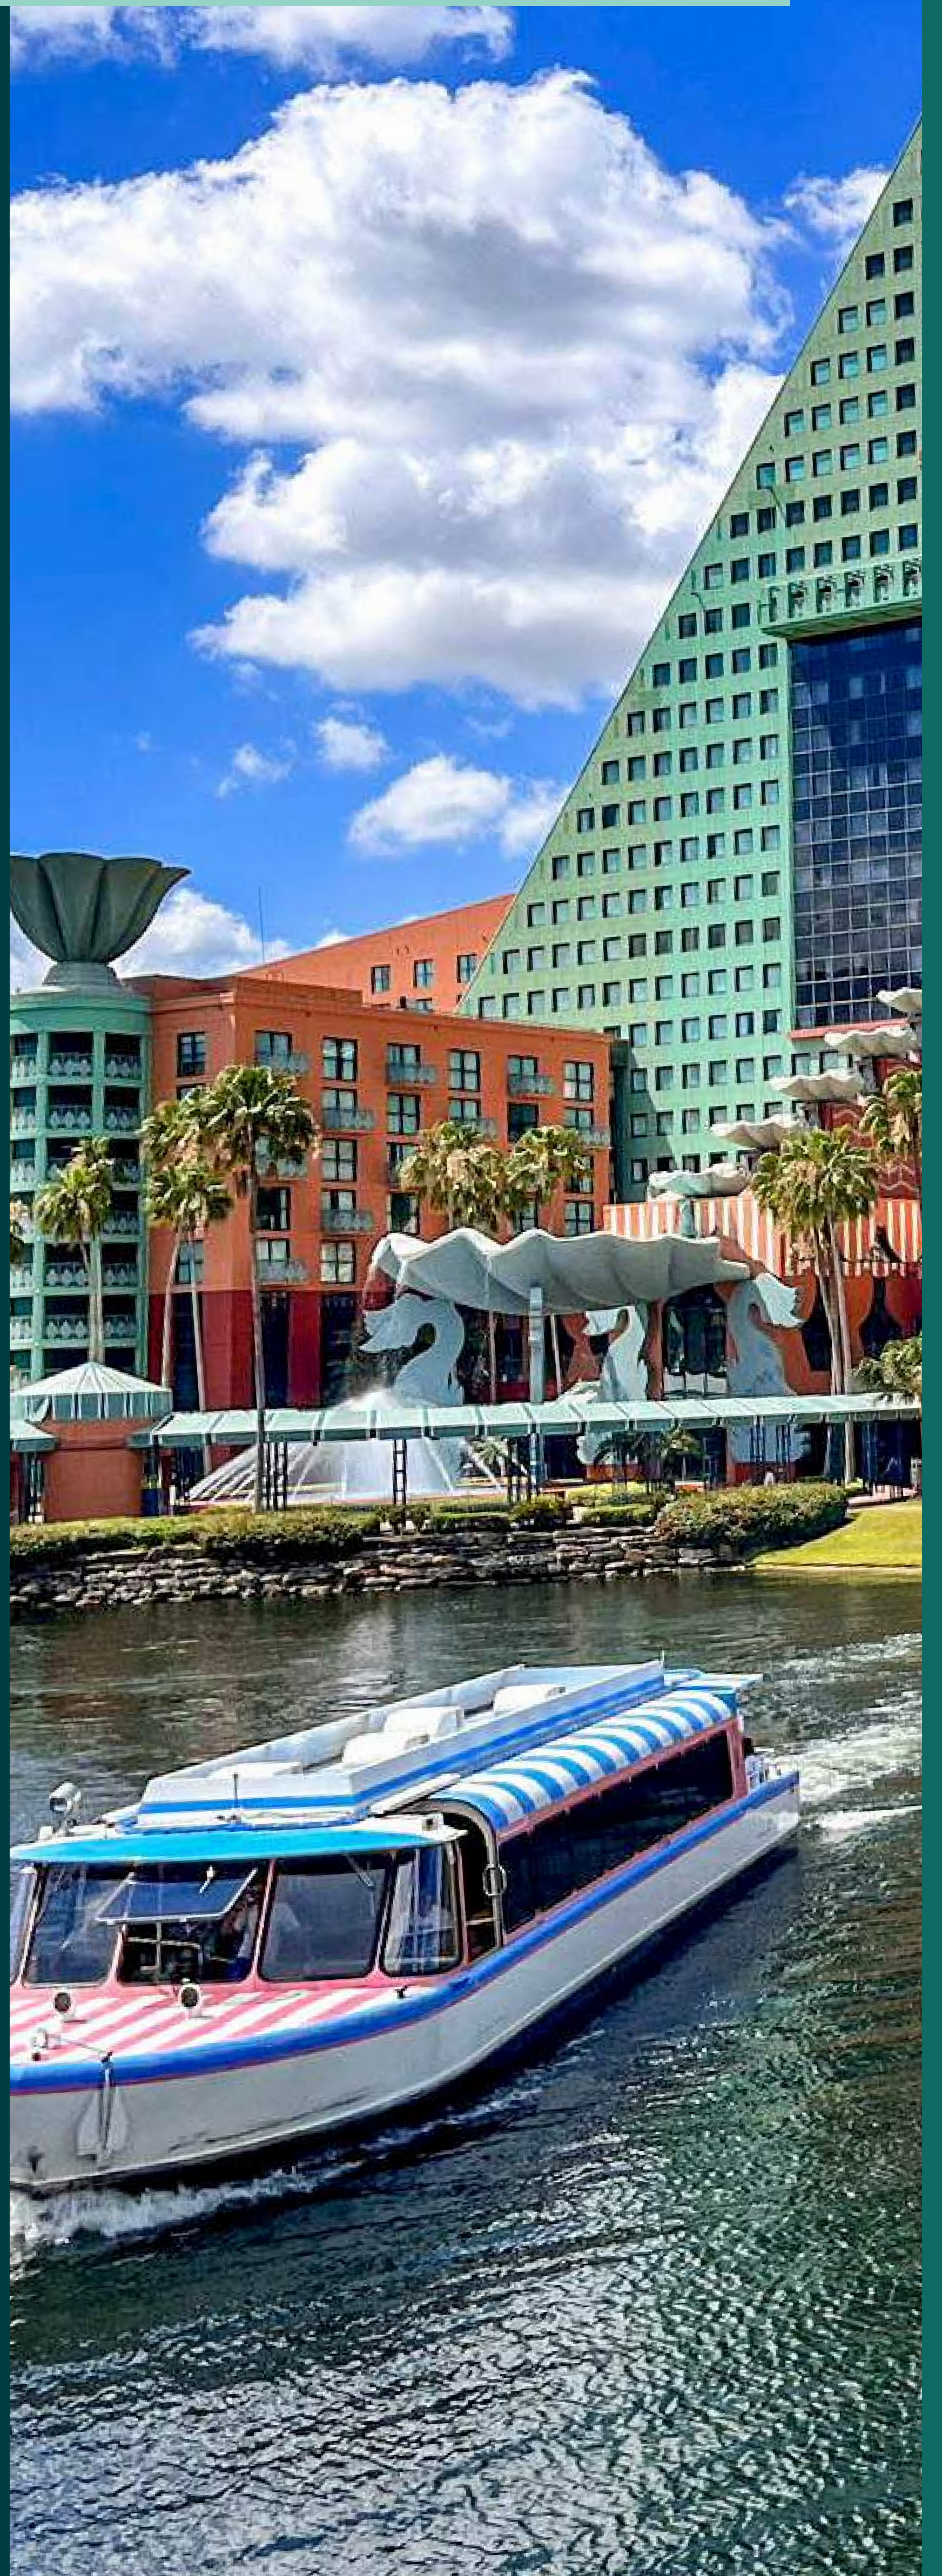

Disney World has several watercraft options that you might want to take from point A to point B.

The Ferryboat provides an additional way for guests to get to and from Magic Kingdom and the Transportation and Ticket Center.

You can travel to and from Magic Kingdom by way of Watercraft Service from Disney's Fort Wilderness Resort & Campground (Green Flag), Disney's Grand Floridian Resort & Spa and Disney's Polynesian Village Resort (Gold Flag), and Disney's Wilderness Lodge (Red Flag).

If you want to do a little resort tour, you can hop on a water taxi that travels between the Contemporary Resort, Fort Wilderness Resort & Campground, and Wilderness Lodge (Blue Flag). Note that this service generally begins later in the day - after 3PM.

You can travel to and from EPCOT and Hollywood Studios using a FriendShip Boat from Disney's BoardWalk Inn, Disney's Beach Club Resort, Disney's Yacht Club Resort, and the Walt Disney World Swan and Dolphin Hotels.

Looking forward to a night out in Disney Springs? You can sail to and from Disney Springs on a riverboat out of Disney's Saratoga Springs Resort & Spa, Disney's Old Key West Resort, and Disney's Port Orleans Resort–Riverside and French Quarter.

Most Disney water taxi routes run on 15- to 30-minute intervals.

The ferry from the TTC to Magic Kingdom typically starts operating 30 minutes before Magic Kingdom opens, and continues for about 1.5 hours after the park closes.

The FriendShip boats between EPCOT, Hollywood Studios, and the neighboring hotels typically start operating about 45 minutes before the theme parks open. They typically continue for one hour after the park closes.

WATER TRANSPORTATION

RIDE TIMES

- Ferryboat between TTC and Magic Kingdom: about 10 minutes (but it does take an additional 10-15 minutes to load passengers and another 5-10 minutes to unload). You should plan to spend around 25-35 minutes from the time you get on the ferry to the time you get to the entrance of Magic Kingdom.
- Boats between Magic Kingdom and the nearby hotels (Grand Floridian and Polynesian on one route, Fort Wilderness on another route, and Wilderness Lodge on another route): Around 10-15 minutes once underway, with the longest ride being the one between Magic Kingdom, the Grand Floridian, and The Polynesian (that one may take closer to 20 minutes for the loop)
- FriendShip boat between EPCOT and Hollywood Studios: Around 30 minutes since you'll make multiple stops at BoardWalk, Beach and Yacht Club, and Swan and Dolphin

MINNIE VANS

A Minnie Van is Disney's own rideshare service operated through the Lyft app for groups of up to six that'll provide a direct and private ride from one location to another around Disney World Resort. It's also decked out to resemble Minnie Mouse's famous polka dot attire! One of the big perks of choosing a Minnie Van versus a regular rideshare is that a Minnie Van will take you right up to the front gates of the parks whereas a regular rideshare might drop you off at a farther location. For instance, at Magic Kingdom a Minnie Van will pick you up/drop you off near the Disney World hotel buses, but a regular rideshare will pick you up/drop you off at the TTC. You can request 2 complimentary child seats if needed. There are also Accessible Minnie Vans available – when searching for your vehicle, tap “Select Access. Minnie Van” as the vehicle option. Accessible Minnie Vans have seating for 5 people, 1 complimentary car seat, and 2 spaces for mobility devices. The cons of a Minnie Van are that they're typically more expensive than a regular rideshare (think: $30-$45+, depending on the time and destination) AND they're very limited in quantity (so it could take longer for one to pick you up).

DRIVING YOURSELF

THEME PARK FEES

While guests staying at a Disney-owned hotel and Annual Passholders can park at the theme parks for free, everyone else staying off-property will need to pay for daily parking.

Standard parking for a car or motorcycle is $30 per day, and oversized vehicle parking is $35 per day.

Once you pay for parking at one of the Disney World theme parks, then you're good for the entire day. If you start your day at Animal Kingdom and decide to Park Hop over to Hollywood Studios, you don't have to pay for parking again. Just show the Cast Member at the front gate your valid parking receipt to prove you've already paid.

Preferred parking at the Disney Parks for a car or motorcycle is also available for $45, $50, or $55 per day (pricing is seasonal and varies by date).

Parking Rows are numbered and themed. Don't forget to take a picture of the number of your parking row so you can find it easily at the end of a long day in the park! You can also use the Car Locator app on your My Disney Experience App to help you keep track of where you're parked.

TRAVEL TIP

Oh, and don't worry about parking at Disney Springs. Parking at the shopping district is free for ALL guests!

RESORT PARKING

If you're staying at one of the Disney hotels, then overnight parking will be free at your "home away from home."

However, if you're staying off property OR if you want to visit a different Disney hotel, you WON'T be able to park at said resort UNLESS you have an Advance Dining Reservation lined up at one of the hotel's Table Service restaurants. (Even then, you may be limited on how long you're allowed to keep your car parked at the hotel.)

BUT you're more than welcome to take Disney's free transportation over to the resort that you want to visit – no dining reservation required! So if you're hoping to just walk around Disney's Polynesian Village Resort, maybe grab some Pulled Pork Nachos at Capt. Cook's, and sample a drink at Trader Sam's Grog Grotto (none of which accept reservations), don't plan to drive and park at the hotel. Instead, plan to take transportation to Magic Kingdom and then grab the monorail, take a boat, or walk over to the Polynesian!

INSIDER TIPS

BUS CHARGERS

Several of the newer Disney buses are set up to allow you to charge while you're en route. Just take a moment when you're boarding the bus to check below the seat and see if your bus is outfitted to allow you to charge on the go!

THE TTC → MAGIC KINGDOM BUS

If the monorail or the ferry is not available on the day of your Magic Kingdom visit, Disney will often run buses from the TTC to Magic Kingdom. If the buses are available, use them for a quick 5-minute ride to the park!

FREE SOUVENIR!

When you take free Disney transportation, ask for a free collectible Transportation Card!

GOOGLE MAPS HACK

You can actually track your Disney World bus on the Google Maps app, which can be REALLY helpful! Put your starting location and final destinations in the app. Then, select the "public transportation" tab. That'll tell you how long that path will take. Click on the route you're interested in and you'll get a full breakdown of what that trip should be like. Select the bus option from that last screen and you'll be taken to a bus schedule tab. There, you should be able to see when the Disney buses are expected to arrive at the bus stop throughout your day.

To really take this to the next level, click on the bus you want to ride and the app should actually TRACK it for you, giving you a schedule of the places the bus is expected to stop and at what times it'll reach those stops. This can be especially helpful for hotels that have an internal bus loop. Download the app ahead of your trip and test it out so you can become familiar with it!

USING TRANSPORTATION DURING PEAK TIMES

When it comes to those early morning trips—when you're trying to get to the parks before rope drop/Early Theme Park Entry—try to arrive at your hotel's bus stop an extra 30-45 minutes early, just to plan around potential crowds and delays. So if Magic Kingdom opens at 9 AM, which means buses to the park will start operating 45 minutes prior to opening (around 8:15 AM), plan to get to your hotel's bus area around 7:30 AM-7:45 AM).

In the evening, right at park close, transportation WILL be packed out—there's typically no avoiding it. But things don't stay that way forever.

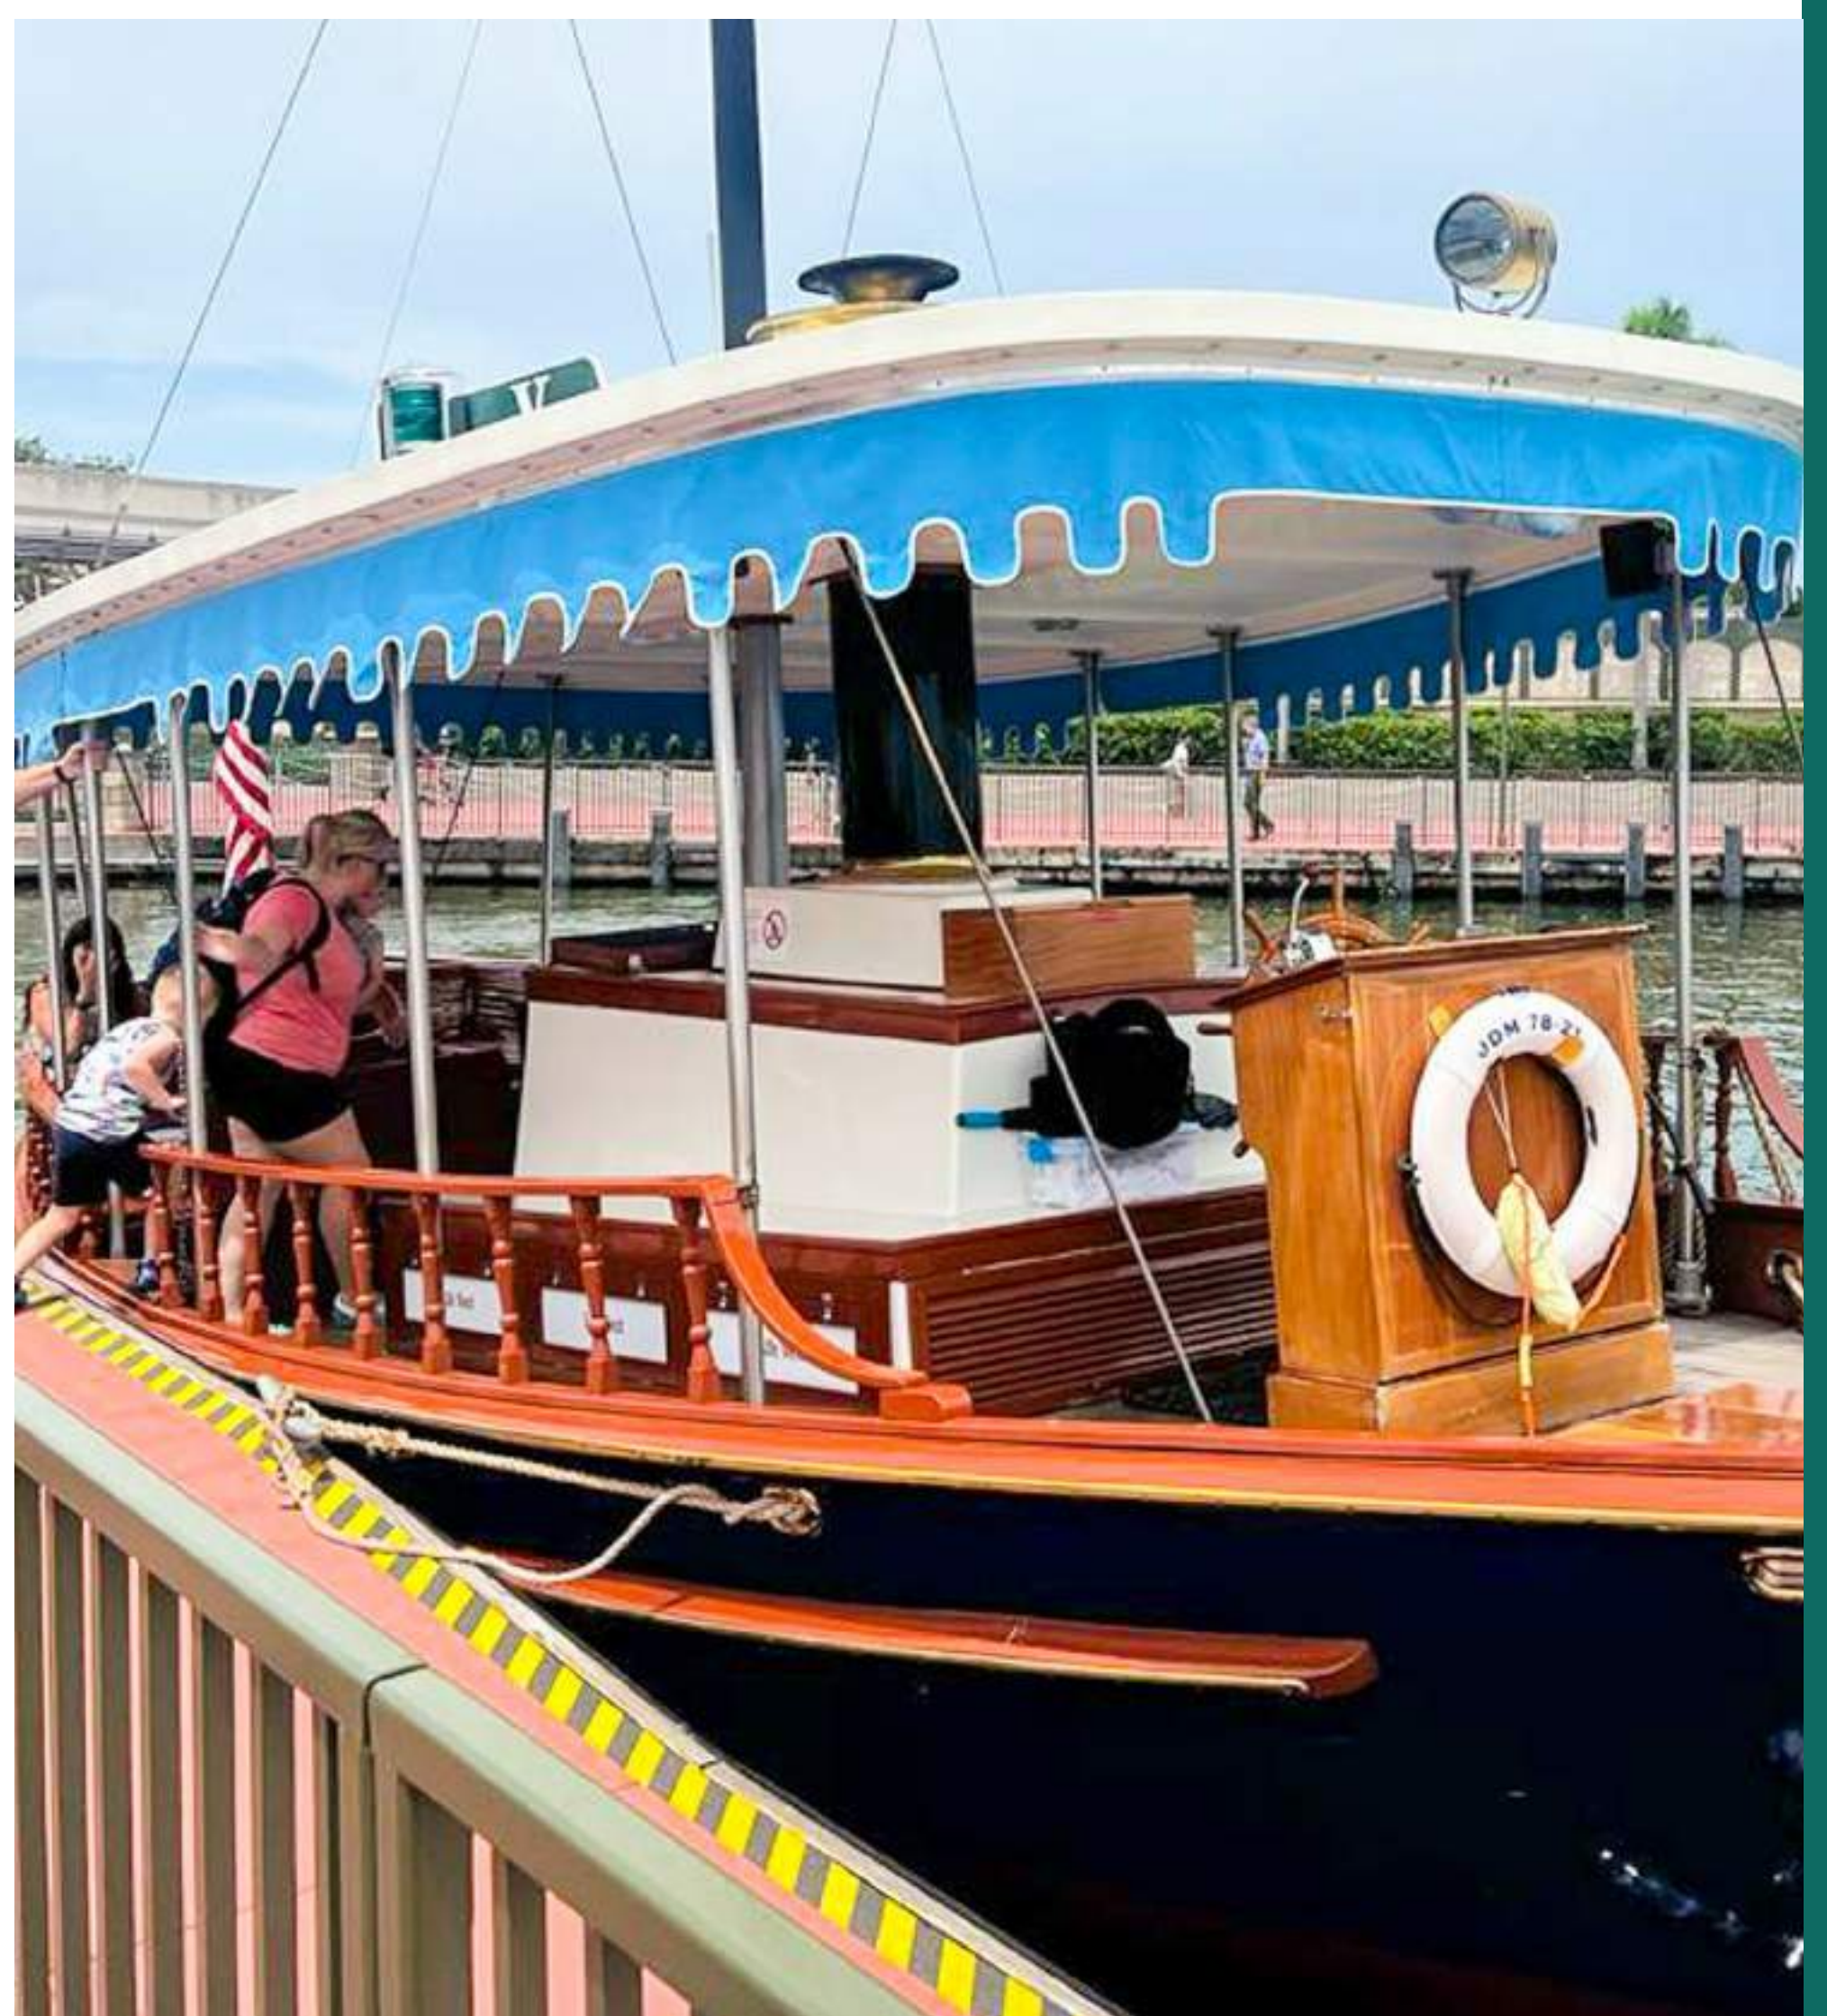

The main shops in the parks often stay open for 30-60 minutes AFTER everything else closes, so you can wait out the bulk of the transportation lines by hanging around, shopping, buying last-minute snacks, and just savoring your last bit of time inside the park instead of rushing toward the exit like everyone else.

If you've already spent a full day in the park and staying even a second longer doesn't sound appealing, you may wanna consider skipping the park's nighttime spectacular altogether to get ahead of the crowds, OR you may want to split your day at a particular park into two days so you can spend DAY ONE just experiencing a park in the morning, and DAY TWO experiencing it fully at night.

UNIQUE SCENARIOS

SCENARIO 1

If you drive to Disney World during peak season (like around Christmas or New Years), you may have a harder time finding parking, especially at the resorts.

SCENARIO 2

Disney will implement heavier restrictions on who can park at the resort hotels due to the influx of guests expected to arrive in those coming days.

SCENARIO 3

For instance, let's say you want to check out those famous gingerbread displays over at Disney's Grand Floridian Resort.

In the past, guests wishing to see the gingerbread display had to park at the Transportation and Ticket Center and take the Resort Monorail over to the hotel.

SCENARIO 4

If you know you're getting ready to travel during one of Disney's busier seasons, keep an eye out for special instructions that could impact.

SCENARIO 5

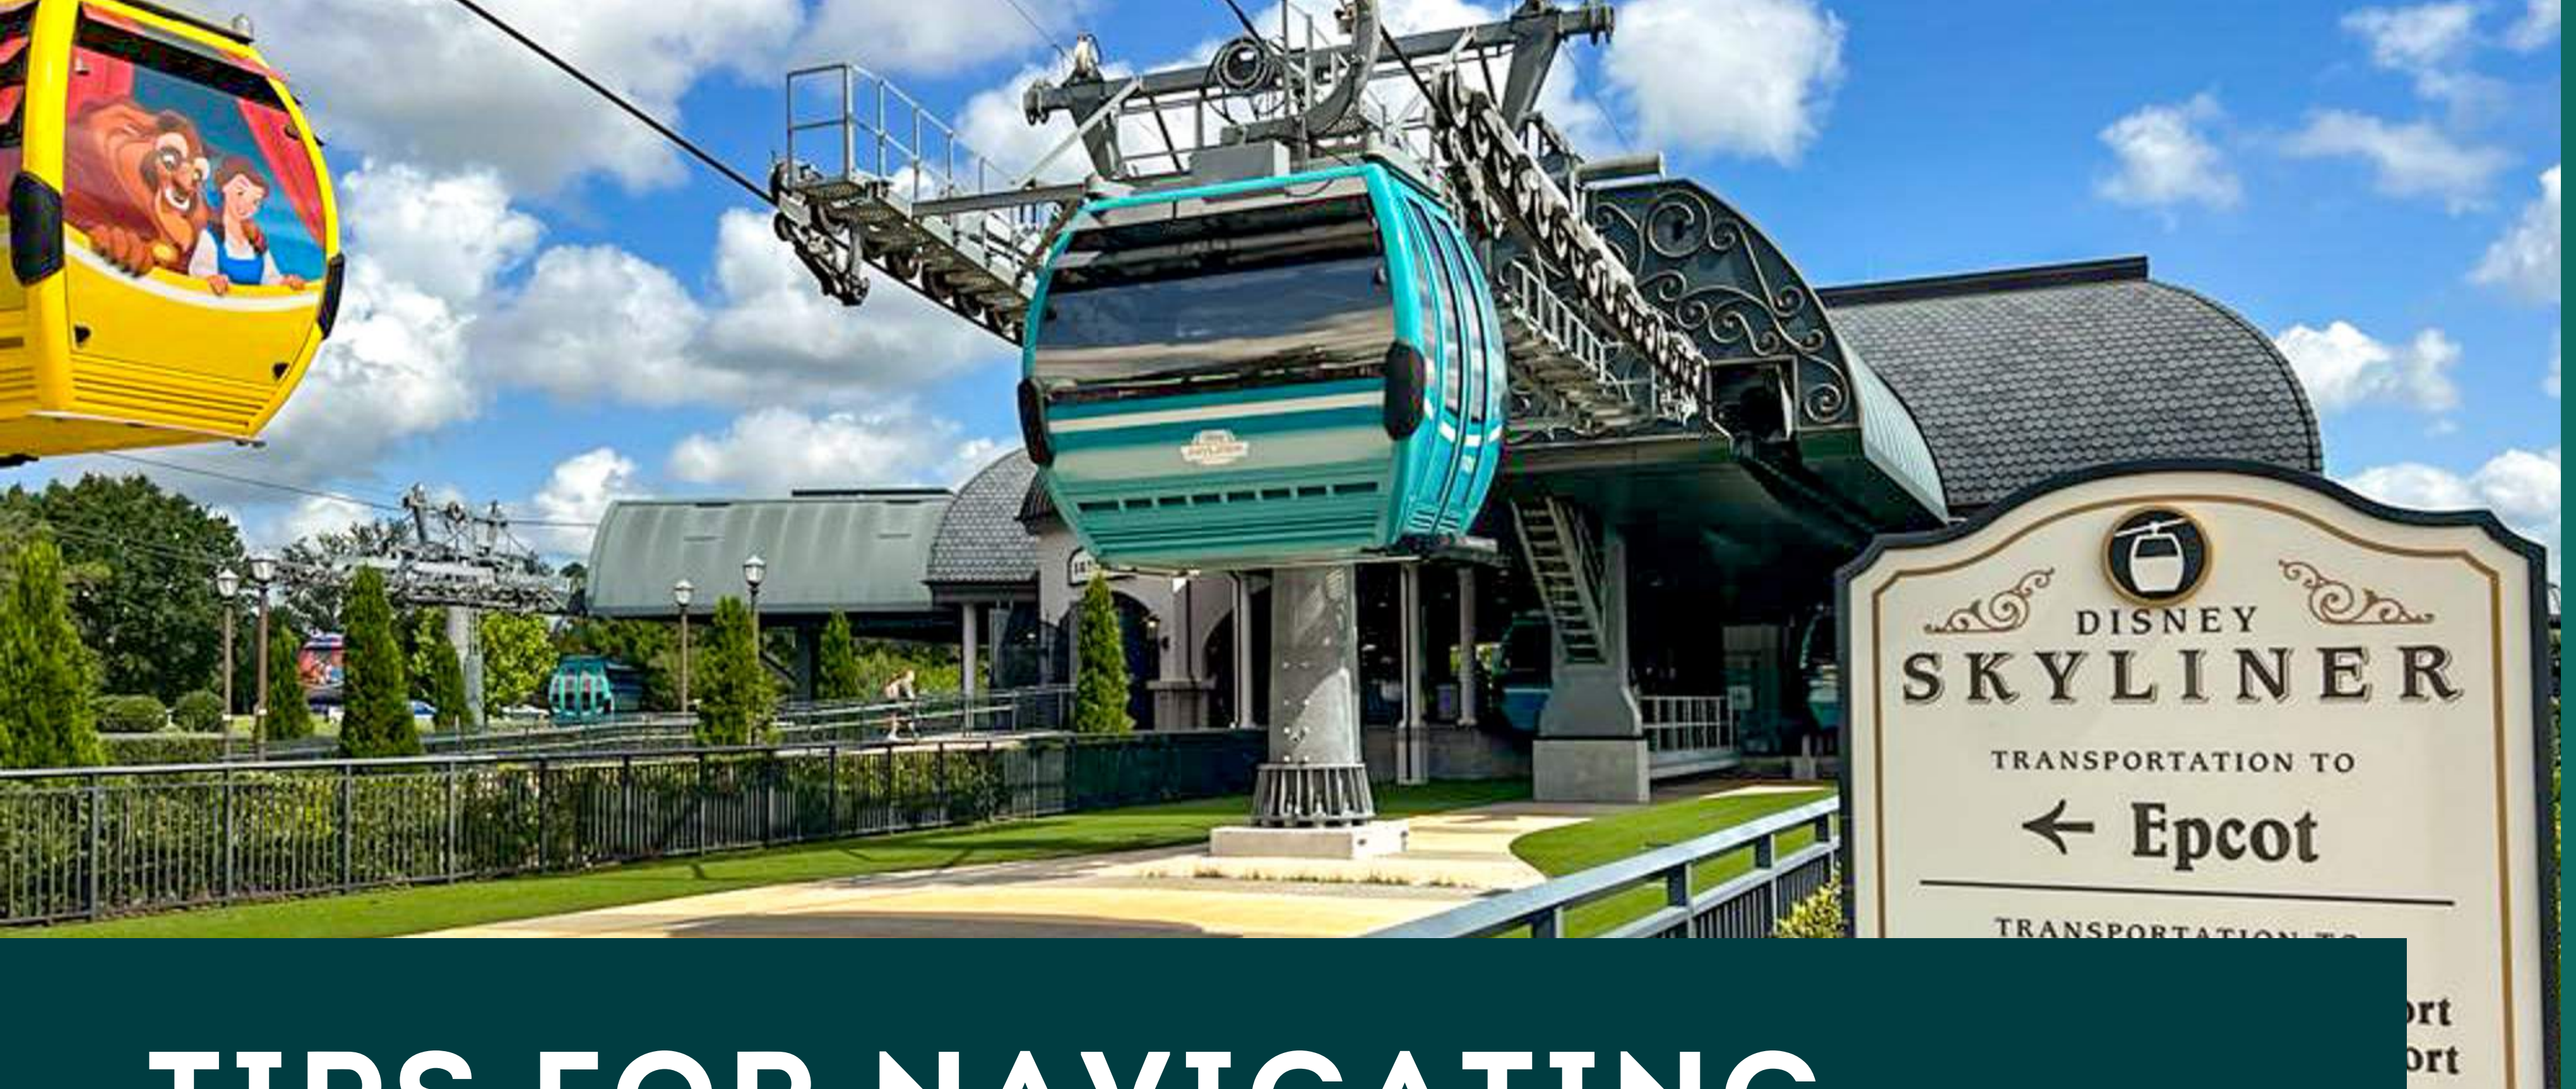

The runDisney race events can also impact how you drive around Disney World.

To keep the runners safe, Disney will close down some stretches of road during the races.

The good news is that those roads don't stay closed all day long. Races at Disney World start very early in the morning (we're talking 5AM at the latest), and each has a cut-off time that runners must complete the race before or else be picked up by Disney transportation.

For the longer races (like half-marathons or marathons), the roads might remain closed for a while into the morning, especially around EPCOT where most of the races finish. It's possible that the roads will be closed around park opening time, so if you're hoping to rope-drop EPCOT on the day of a runDisney race, you may want to plan ahead.

To see all the road closures during runDisney races, head to the event hub and look for the section that says "transportation." An interactive map should pop up that shows you which roads will be closed at any given time.

TIPS FOR NAVIGATING

SPECIAL MAGIC KINGDOM CONSIDERATIONS

If you drive your own vehicle to EPCOT, Animal Kingdom, or Hollywood Studios, you'll be able to park and walk up to the front gates. (You'll also have the option to take a parking tram if you'd rather save your steps.) However, if you're driving to Magic Kingdom, you'll first park at the TTC, and THEN you'll have to either take a monorail or ferryboat the rest of the way to the front gates. This could take an additional 20-30+ minutes, so be sure to factor that extra time into your plans for the day. That being said, if you're taking a bus from your Disney hotel to Magic Kingdom, you'll be dropped off at the front of the park rather than at the TTC.

SKYLINER TRANSFERS

Look closely at the Skyliner pathways when planning your trip.

The Caribbean Beach station is an "end of the line station," meaning you will NEED to get off here and transfer to the other routes that take you to other destinations.

So if you're hopping on the Skyliner from Art of Animation/Pop Century, you'll head to Caribbean Beach, get off, and then hop on either the route to Disney's Hollywood Studios or Disney's Riviera Resort/EPCOT.

Note that you will pass through the Riviera Station between Caribbean Beach and EPCOT. You do NOT need to get off on this stop if you don't want to. But if you do want to disembark at the Riviera station, you'll need to stand up when your gondola pulls into the station to signal your intentions. If you want to remain in your gondola through the station, just remain seated.

WALKWAYS

Walkways from the hotels to the theme parks or Disney Springs are not incredibly common, but they DO exist! This way of traversing Disney World—entirely wait-free—is available to and from the following locations:

1. Disney's Contemporary Resort to and from Magic Kingdom (about 15 minutes)
2. Disney's Grand Floridian Resort (about 15 minutes) and Disney's Polynesian Village Resort (between 20-30 minutes) to and from Magic Kingdom
3. Disney's BoardWalk Inn to and from EPCOT's International Gateway (about 10 minutes) and Disney's Hollywood Studios (about 15-20 minutes)
4. Disney's Yacht and Beach Club Resorts to and from EPCOT's International Gateway (about 10 minutes) and Disney's Hollywood Studios (about 15-20 minutes)
5. Walt Disney World Swan and Dolphin Resort to and from EPCOT's International Gateway (around 15 minutes) and Disney's Hollywood Studios (around 20 minutes)
6. Disney's Saratoga Springs Resort & Spa to and from Disney Springs (about 10-20 minutes)
7. Disney's Old Key West Resort to and from Disney Springs (about 35 minutes)

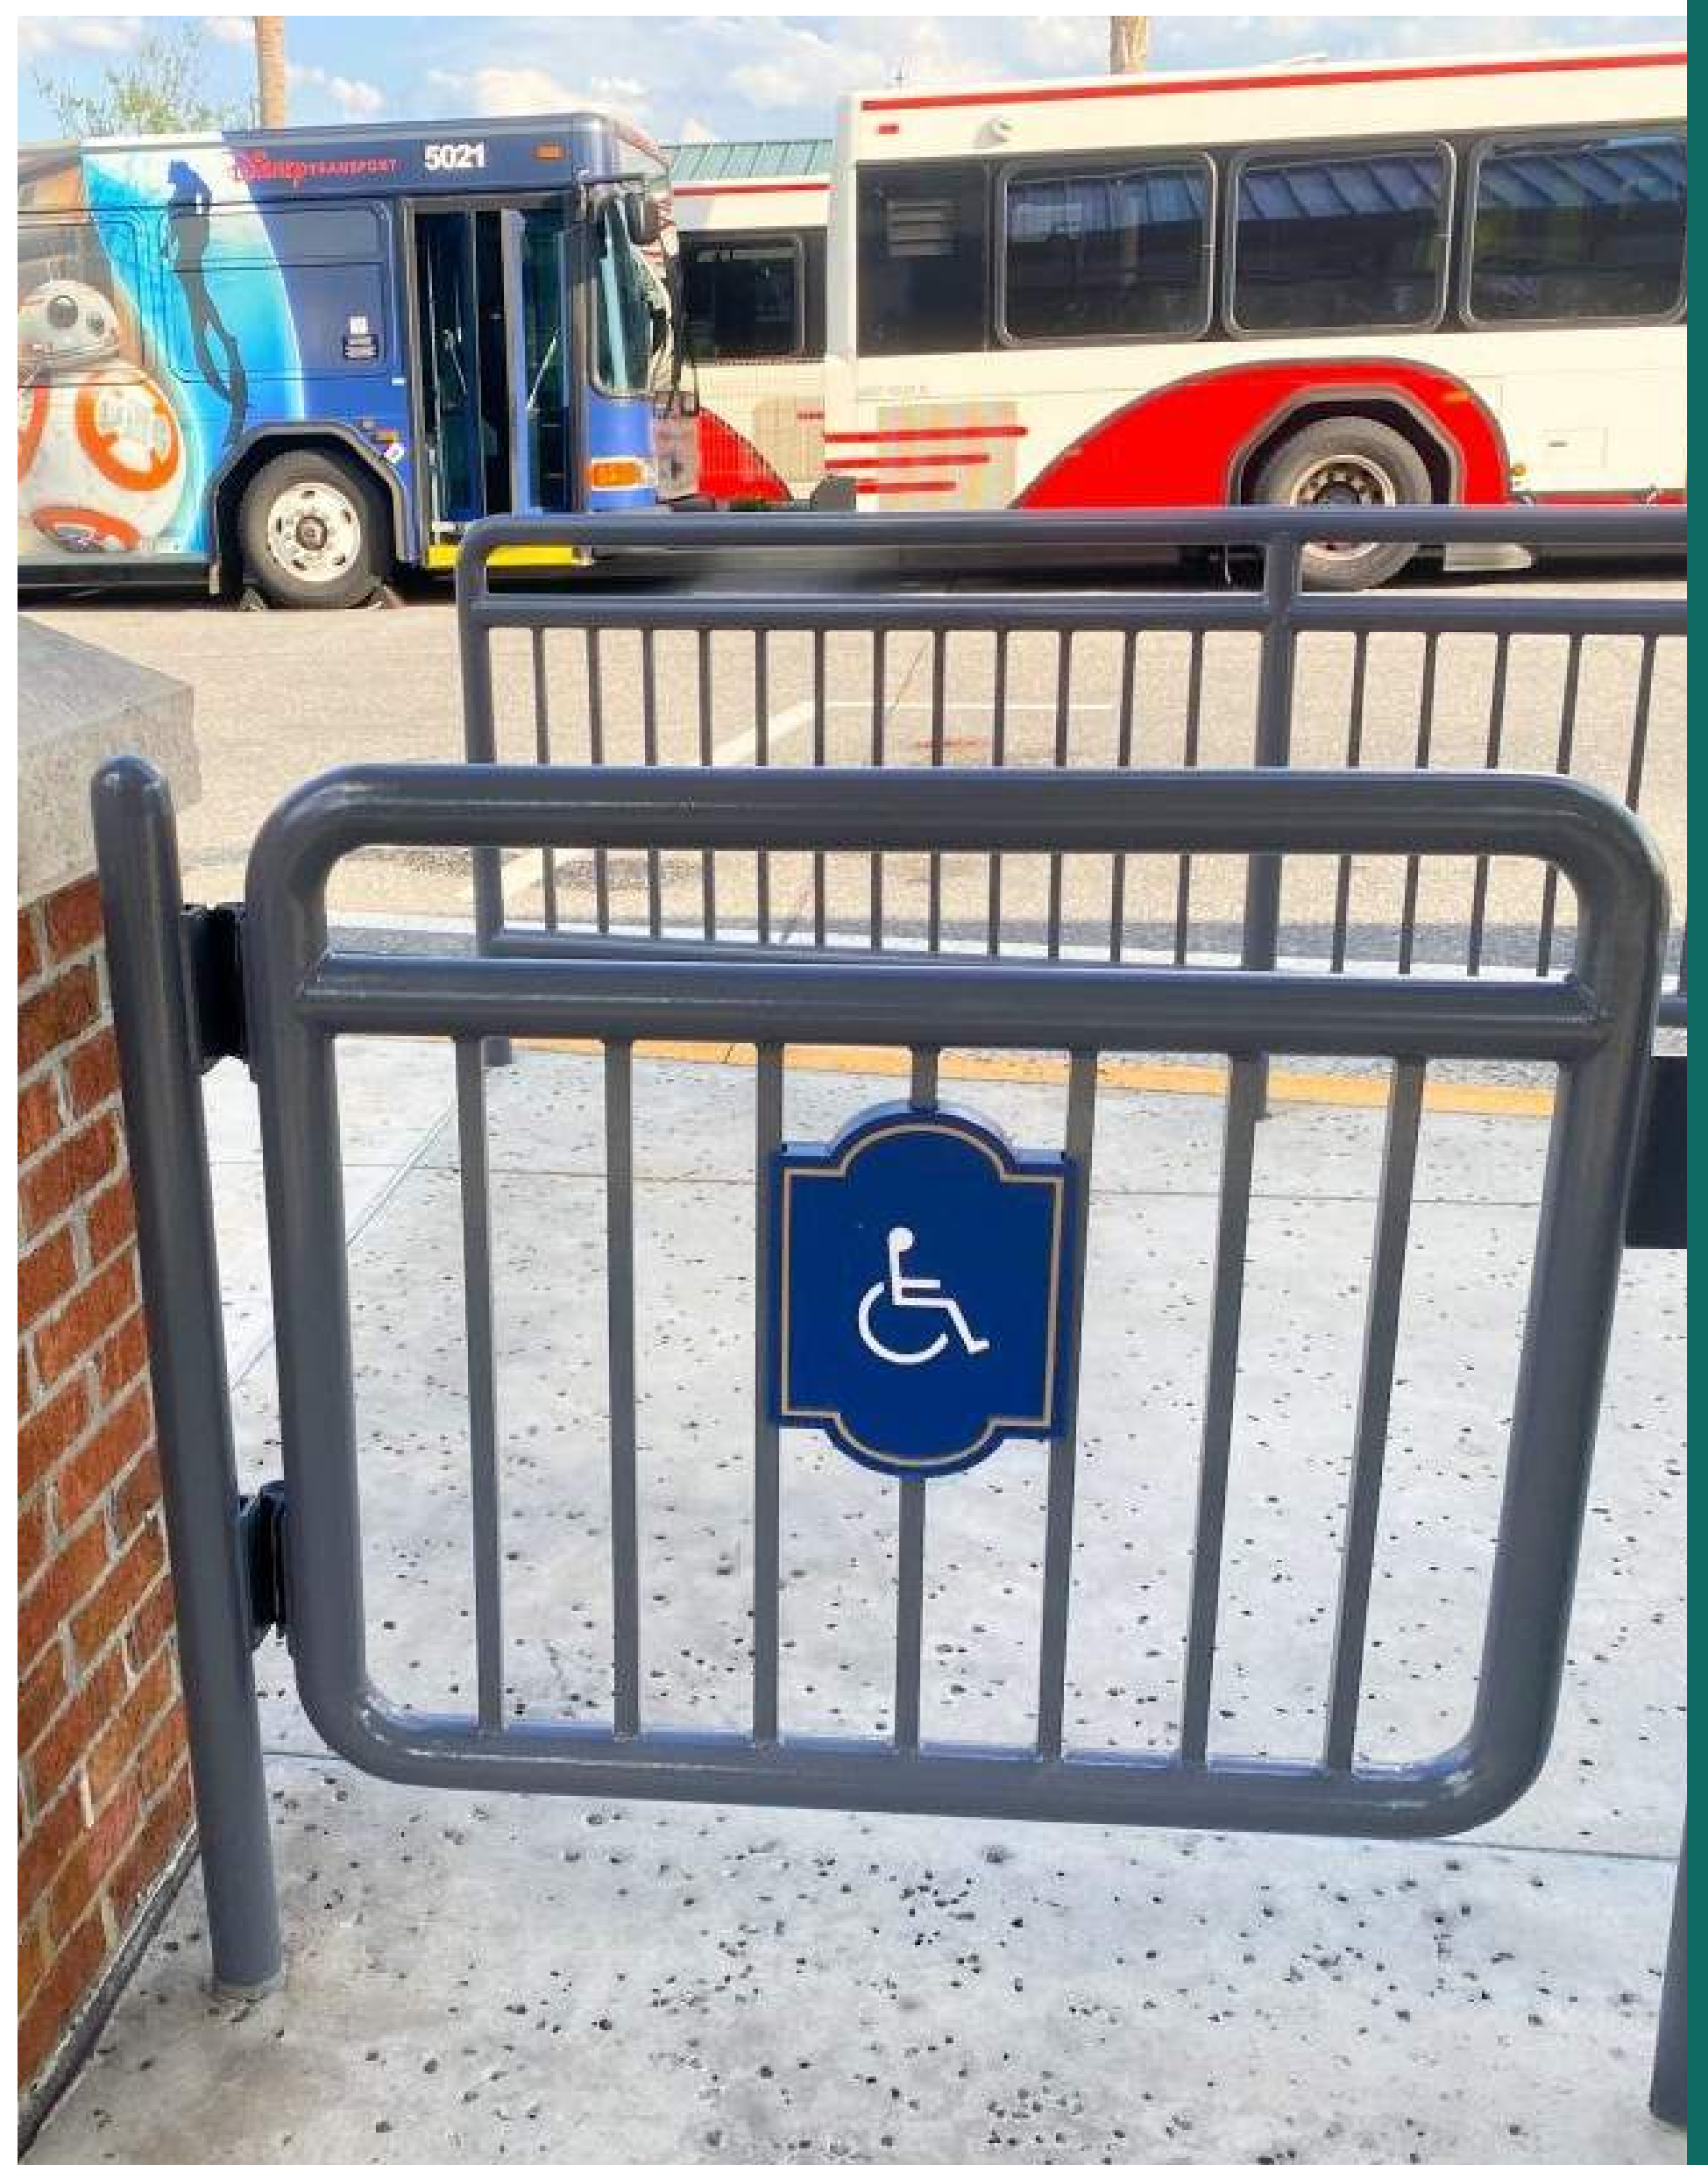

STROLLERS, WHEELCHAIRS, AND ECVS

Buses: Disney buses can accommodate wheelchairs and ECVs. Guests traveling with strollers must fold the strollers before boarding a bus and keep them folded for the duration of the ride.

Skyliner: The Skyliner gondolas are designed to accommodate wheelchairs, ECVs, and strollers. Strollers do NOT have to be folded on the Skyliner (so you can roll them on with your child in them), but your stroller size is limited to 30" by 48" when unfolded. Each line in every Skyliner station has a wheelchair-designated queue. Cabins designated for this line will stop to allow boarding.

Monorail: The Monorail is also designed to accommodate strollers, wheelchairs, and ECVs. Strollers generally do NOT need to be folded prior to boarding and kiddos can remain in the stroller. But note that on a busy day, you might be asked to fold up the stroller to make room for more guests.

Water transportation: Some of the water transportation in Disney can accommodate ECVs or wheelchairs (like the Ferryboat between the TTC and Magic Kingdom and the FriendShip boats between certain resort hotels and EPCOT/Hollywood Studios), but some of the smaller options (like the water taxis that go between Magic Kingdom and the Magic Kingdom area hotels) are not optimized for those using an ECV or wheelchair. In terms of strollers, for smaller water taxis, generally, strollers must be folded and stowed outside of the aisles. For the larger ferryboat that takes guests to/from the TTC and Magic Kingdom, strollers can generally go on without having to be folded.

PARK HOPPING

Park Hopping is the ability to visit more than one of the Disney World theme parks in one day. To Park Hop, you MUST have a valid theme park ticket or Annual Pass that includes Park Hopper benefits. Transportation options can vary depending on where you are and where you're headed. For example, to get between Magic Kingdom and EPCOT, you can take the monorail to the TTC and then hop on the appropriate line. To get between EPCOT and Hollywood Studios, you can use the Skyliner (transferring at Caribbean Beach), you could walk, or you could take a FriendShip boat. Buses may also be available between the parks discussed above, and are generally available between the other parks.

Keep in mind that park-to-park bus routes start to run at 10AM each day.

AIRPORT TRANSPORTATION

Previously, Disney provided a free shuttle service called Disney's Magical Express for hotel guests traveling between Orlando International Airport and their Disney resort. However, this service was discontinued in 2022. So, if you're planning on flying into Orlando International Airport, you'll need to figure out (and pay for) transportation to/from the airport and your hotel on your own.

One option includes Mears Connect Driven by Sunshine, which provides guests with transportation to and from the airport and eligible hotels for a fee. Mears is the company that used to operate Disney's Magical Express. Mears Connect also offers an Express Service that takes you directly from the airport to your hotel with no extra stops along the way, which starts at $250 for up to 4 people.

Earlier last year, a new bus route called Link311 began taking guests to and from Orlando International Airport and over to Disney Springs for only $2 each way. The bus comes every 30 minutes daily from 5 AM to 11 PM and does pickups and dropoffs on the West Side of Disney Springs. It tends to have plenty of seats and is wheelchair accessible. That being said, there isn't a ton of storage space, so you'll need to hold your suitcase on your lap if it gets too crowded. Also, keep in mind that Disney does not allow suitcases on their free transportation services. If you use this $2 option, you might still have to pay for a rideshare from Disney Springs to take you the rest of the way to your resort.

INTERNAL BUS LOOPS

Old Key West, Saratoga Springs, Port Orleans - Riverside, Caribbean Beach, and Coronado Springs all have internal bus loops since the resorts are made up of several buildings. At these places, you may have to stop off at a few different bus stations before leaving to go to the parks, or you may have to make a few stops on the way back at the end of the night. This could add quite a bit of extra travel time to your daily schedule that you'll need to be aware of!

Look carefully at the hotel maps before booking so you can see which bus stations are near the hotel amenities you want to be closest to. That way, you can potentially request a room by a certain station.

To make a room request, log into your Disney Experience account via the Disney World website. From there, go to the My Plans section from the drop-down menu and select the “Modify My Check-In or Start Check-In” option located under your resort information. This is where you’ll find the room request section.

You can also make room requests through your My Disney Experience App or by calling up your resort.

WATER PARKS

If you're heading to one of the water parks—Disney's Blizzard Beach or Disney's Typhoon Lagoon—bus transportation gets a bit more complicated.

If you're going to Typhoon Lagoon from a Disney hotel, you will need to take a bus to Disney Springs FIRST, then transfer to the Typhoon Lagoon bus at the Disney Springs station. Buses from Disney Springs to Typhoon Lagoon start around 45 minutes prior to the water park's opening, and buses from Typhoon Lagoon to Disney Springs stop about 60 minutes after the water park closes.

To get to Blizzard Beach, you'll typically need to get on a bus to Animal Kingdom FIRST and transfer buses from there. Buses from Animal Kingdom to Blizzard Beach start around 30 minutes prior to the water park opening, and buses from Blizzard Beach back to Animal Kingdom stop about 60 minutes after water park closing. Some hotels, however, (like the All-Star Resort hotels and Coronado Springs) offer direct bus transportation to Blizzard Beach.

DISNEY SPRINGS

The Disney Springs shopping district has three transportation areas:

1. The Disney Springs West Side area is used for rideshares, guest pick up/drop off, and non-Disney-owned hotel buses (this includes buses for Good Neighbor hotels, Swan and Dolphin, and Shades of Green).
2. The Disney Springs Marketplace area is typically used for Minnie Vans and other rideshares. But note that guests using Minnie Vans can also be dropped off at the West Side, Town Center, or Marketplace if the guest has a preference. (Also, Disney specifies that those using rideshare can generally be dropped off and picked up near the West Side area too.)
3. The main Disney Springs bus area near Town Center is where you'll find buses departing to and arriving from the Disney hotels.

Buses between the Disney World hotels and Disney Springs are available during Disney Springs' operating hours. They stop running one hour after Disney Springs' closing.

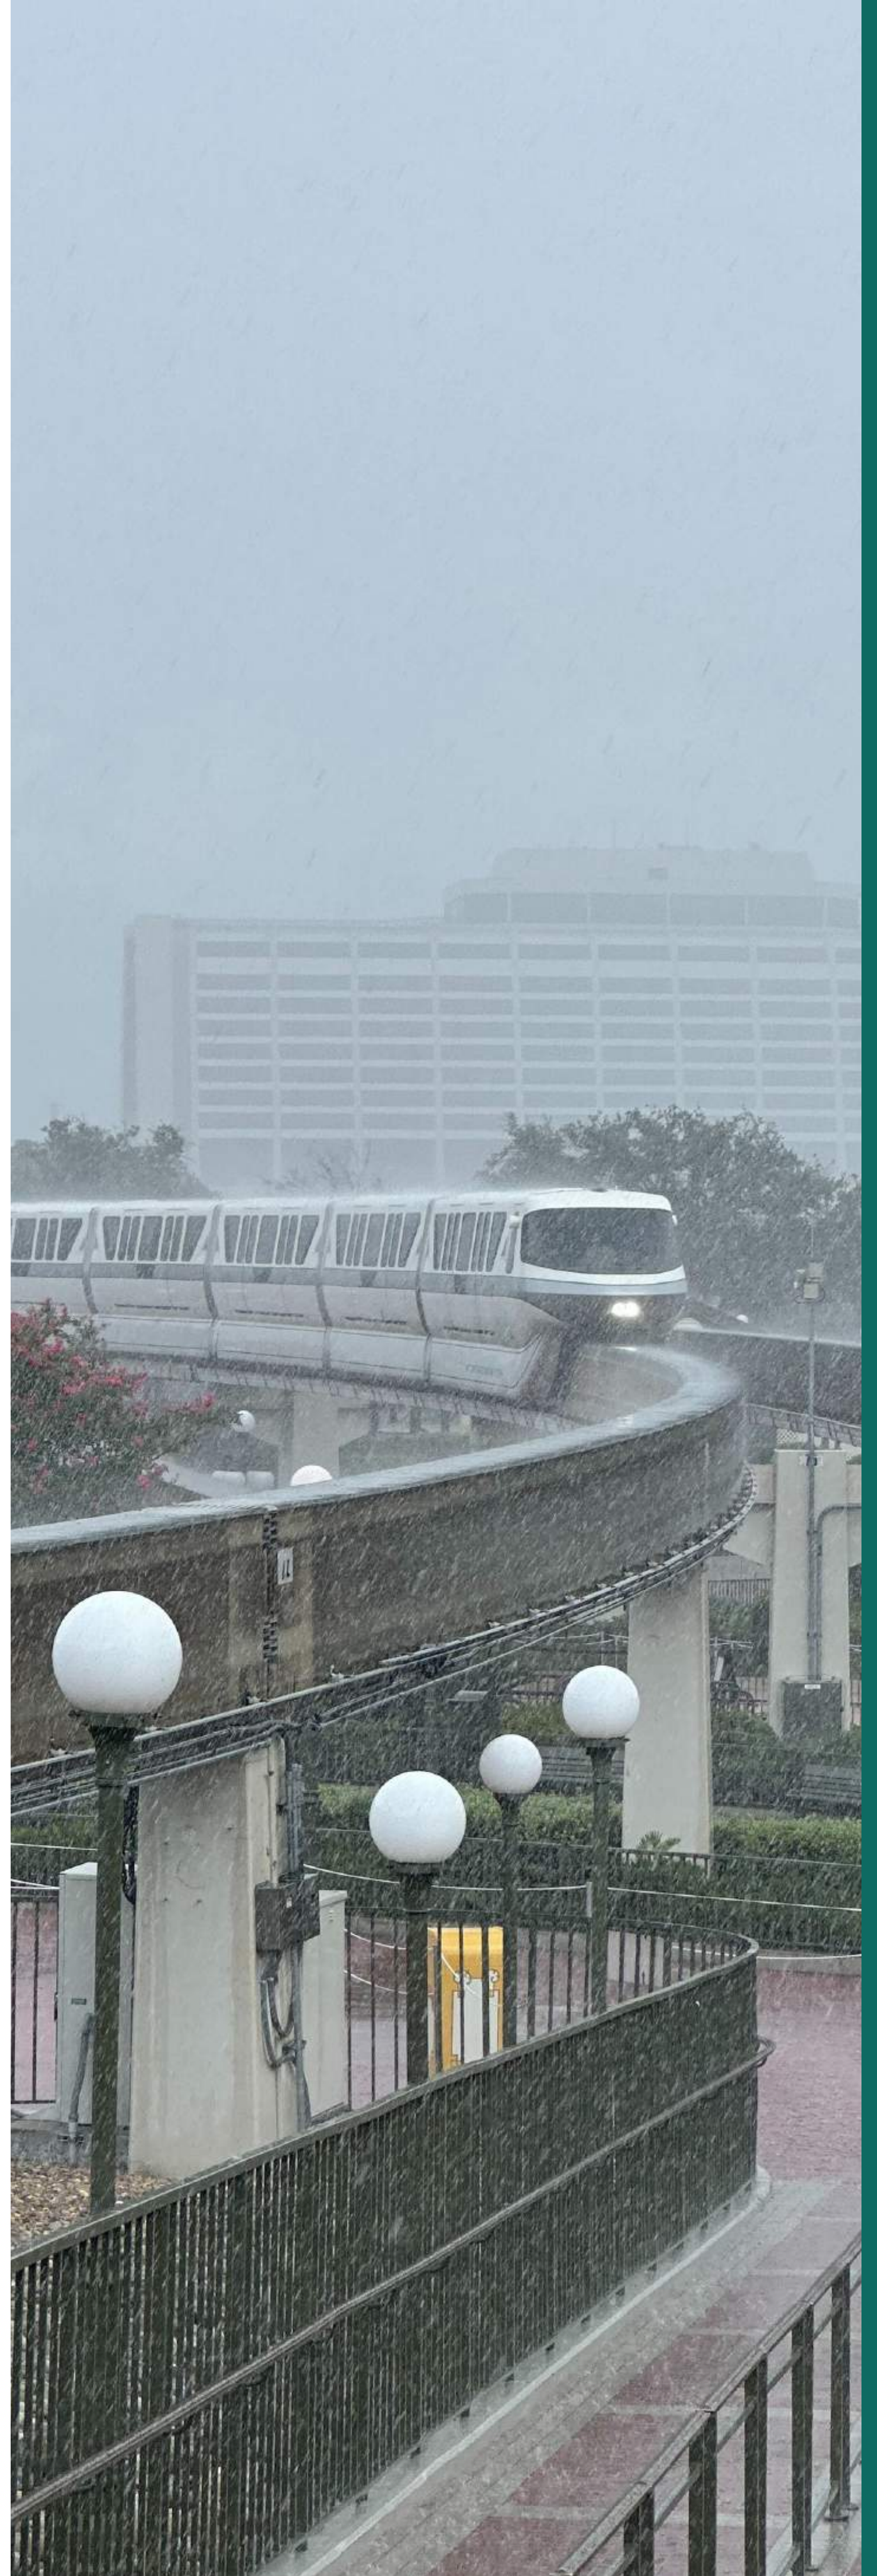

Note that Disney Springs does NOT offer buses that connect to the Disney parks (and the Disney Parks typically do not offer buses directly to Disney Springs). Instead, you'll need to travel to a resort first and transfer buses from there.

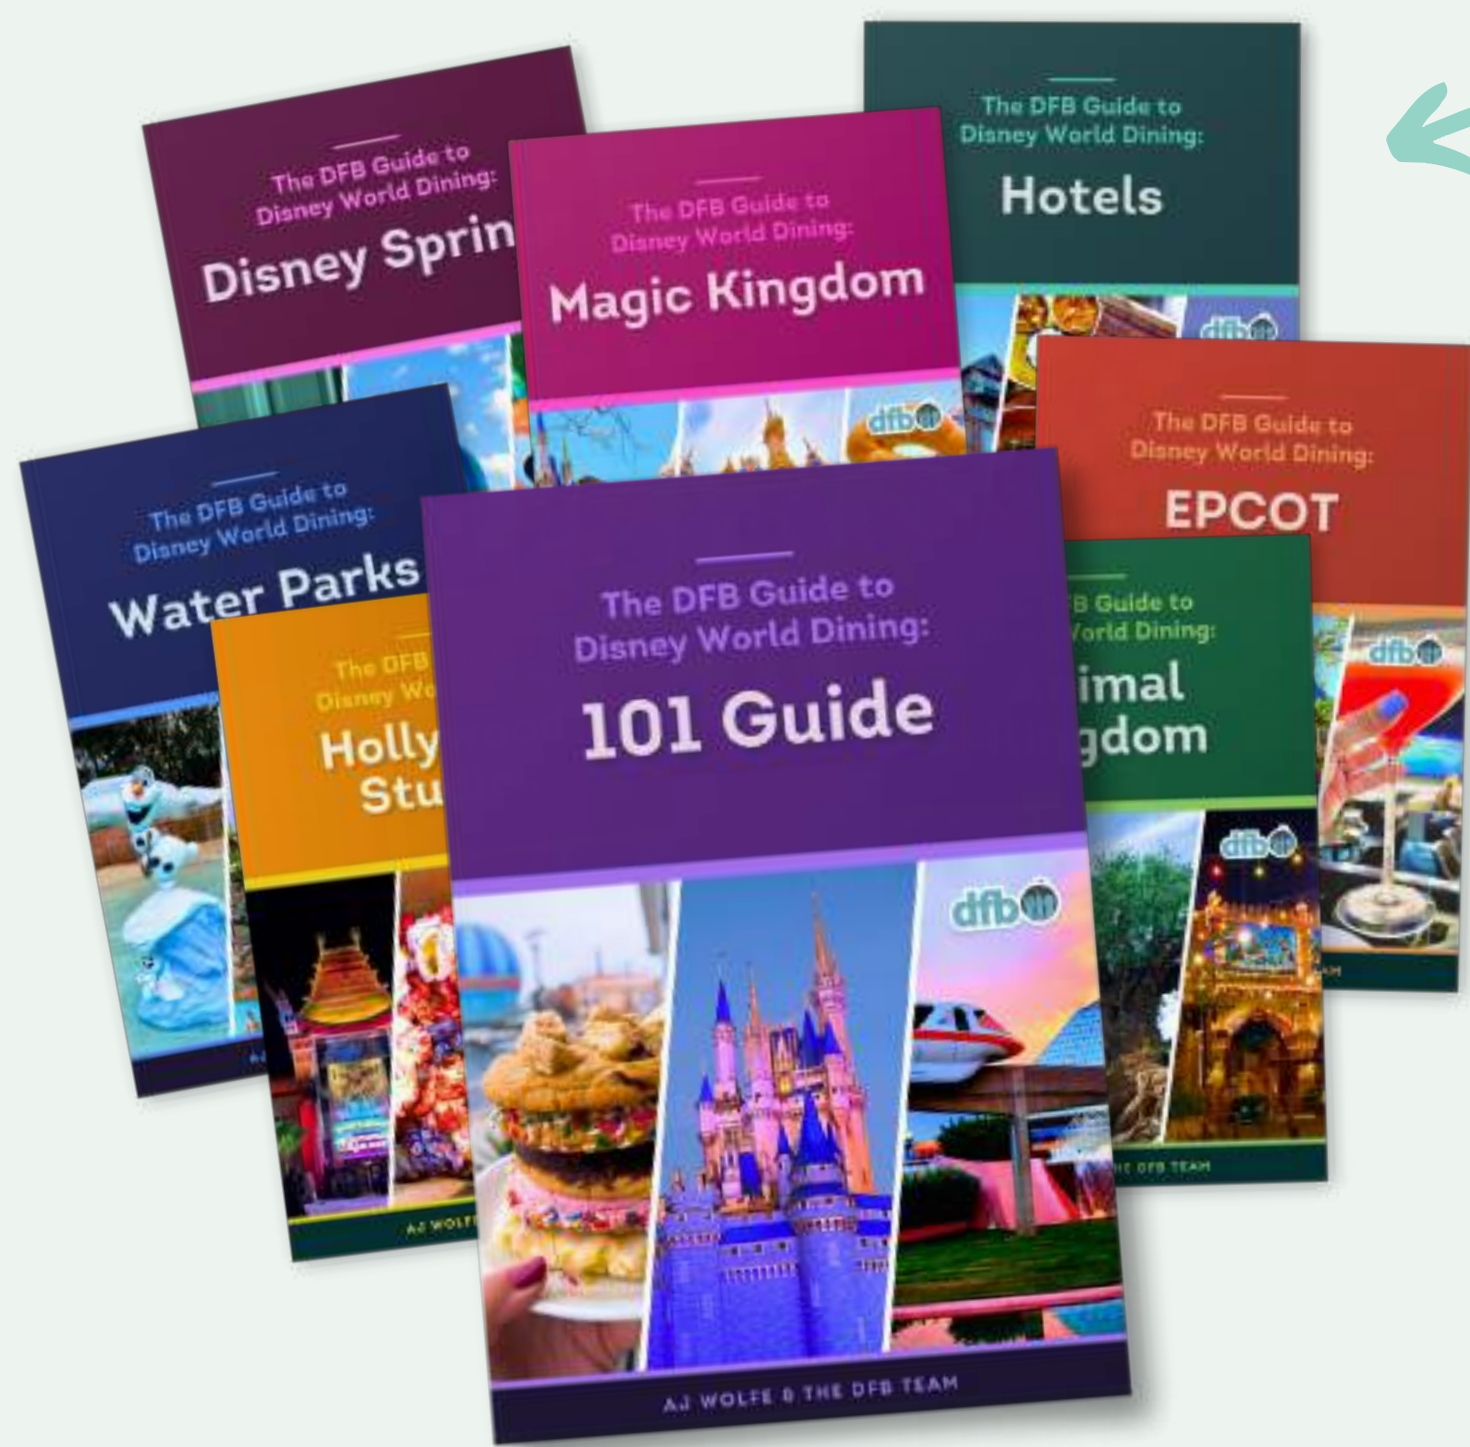

INCLEMENT WEATHER

If there are thunderstorms in the area, the Skyliner is required to close for the safety of the riders. If that happens, Disney will typically offer buses that run to the usual Skyliner destinations instead. The Skyliner may also close if there's excessive wind. Because the gondolas are attached to the cords by one hanging arm, they tend to swing if it's particularly windy, so Disney will wait until the wind dies down to reopen.

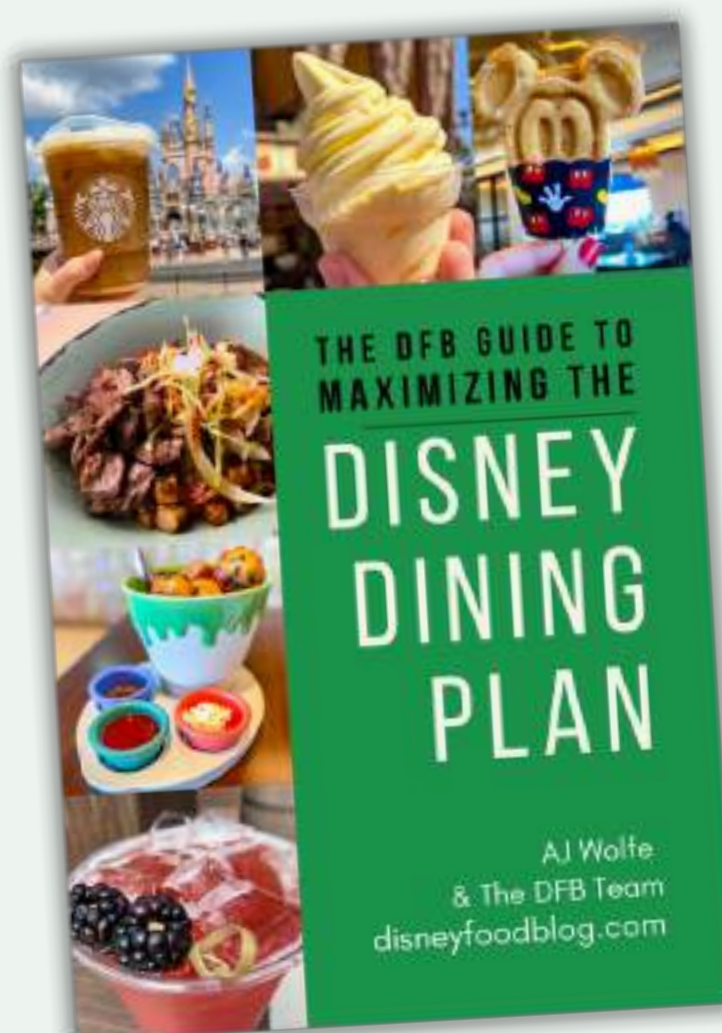

Note that the hours of operation for Disney's water transportation is also subject to weather conditions.
